The Weighing Social

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at the Methodist church and Rev. O. H. Howerton, of the Baptist Church, will preach the sermon. There will be special music.

Weather Prophet.

Down around Hartford there's a weather prophet that is right on the job. Listen to what he has to say:

"In the first place, our last winter, barring a few slight drops in the temperature in December, began in January and continued until September. The law of compensation holds good in nature as in other things, and while it may be more variable in weather conditions than in other things, it is not to be set aside as impossible. It is at least reasonable to believe that, our last winter period having been abnormally prolonged, the coming season may be shortened by way of compensation. This seems to be verified by other indications noticeable to the observant student of nature. The corn shuck is not thick and heavy, the outer bark of trees and shrubs has assumed no extra thickness, and the blackbirds are holding daily consultations with a view of remaining with us and thus saving the trouble of their customary migration. At least the voluble chattering of the noisy creatures possesses a note of joy and satisfied contentment unusual at this season of the year." He also says that his goosebone, taken from a fowl raised especially to foretell the weather, and killed when conditions were just right, foretells that the month of December will be one of the prettiest on record and that Christmas week will be a beautiful sunny one and we'll have to enjoy our merry-making without the inspiration of snow. Following this pretty spell will be a period of rain and slush that will last through the first week in February, when it will turn off clear and cold and crisp. This ideal weather will be broken up by hard March rains that will soon usher in the Spring which will come unusually early.

Selecting the Seed Corn.

At this time of the year there is nothing so important to the farmers of the country as the selection of a supply of good seed corn. The use of a little care in the selecting, curing and testing of seed corn will result in a great increase in the total yield of this crop, and its importance cannot be too strongly emphasized. Professor R. A. Moore of the University of Wisconsin Experiment Station, has just written a circular which gives the necessary details in compact form:

"The first steps toward better seed corn for next year must be taken in the fall by selecting the seed ears from the stalks in the field," says Professor Moore. "The corn should be allowed to mature well on the stalk. By selecting the earliest maturing ears and picking them from the stalk as soon as the husks begin to turn yellow, which is a common practice, earliness is secured at the expense of vitality.

"A slight frost will not injure corn if it is well matured and it is better to run the risk of a frost than to pick the ears too early. The latter part of the growing season seems to improve the vitality of the corn greatly.

"Care should be taken in picking seed to secure ears which are attached to the stalk about three feet above the ground.

Those ears which grow either high or very low upon the stalk should be rejected as they are undesirable, having characteristics which we do not desire. For the same reason we should avoid ears with very short or long shanks or from deformed stalks.

"Go into the field after the husks on the ears have turned yellow and select the well formed ears from good stalks. Put them in sacks or baskets and bring them to the side of the field and husk. It is well to follow definite rows in securing seed corn, otherwise a large number of good ears are missed. After the corn is husked many ears will be found imperfect and should be discarded. Only those ears should be retained for curing for seed that are of good form. Seed corn should be put into the proper place for curing the same day that is taken from the field."

Need More Pretty Teachers.

The cry comes from the northwest, especially from Washington and Oregon, for more school teachers.

Those who go there marry so fast that the demand for female teachers is always greater than the supply. This may be a scheme to get pretty school ma'ams to come to those states, by stating the possibilities, (eventualities.) If so, it is a pretty good one. At any rate, some of them will try it, especially those whose charms have not been fully recognized at home. Good teachers are in demand everywhere, however, while woman from which to select wives are as thick as leaves in Vallambrosa or Kentucky especially in and around Columbia. Nowhere in the world can fairer women be found than in 'Old Kaintuck.'

The Really Curious Thing.

President Stryker of Hamilton College, discussing Theodore Roosevelt, the topic of the times by common consent, says:

"In New York he is one think and in Kansas another. In Massachusetts he embraces Lodge, in Indiana he put his arms around Beveridge. In New York he talks against bosses and in Cincinnati he kisses them. One of the most curious things is that he does not realize how funny he is."

Col. Roosevelt is not without a sense of humor. Perhaps he does realize that his recent labors in the field of pseudo reform are not without this is that so small a proportion of the people fail to grasp the fact that the oratorical flip-flops he has been doing since summer constitute entertainment for the auditor whose appreciation of comedy is well developed rather than a convincing argument to persons who have taken him seriously as a reformer.

The Colonel is "a amosin' cuss." We enjoy his performance immensely. But we should like to be excused from taking him seriously as anything but an advocate of the eminence of Theodore Roosevelt.

The contest of the will of Claiborne Lisle, a wealthy Clark county farmer-banker, is being heard at a special term of Circuit Court in Winchester.

Badinage in Vermont.

Miss Marie Dressler has a picturesque residence in Vermont. "I like all Vermont but the railways," she said in an interview in Boston. "The railways are too slow. The people, on the other hand, are quick. In repartee and badinage there is no quicker man living than your Vermontor."

"An old farmer in my neighborhood fell ill last Summer, and it was feared that an operation would be necessary. He was very weak, and his physician called in a specialist from Boston."

"The specialist, after examining the old man, agreed that an operation was advisable—

"But," he said 'we'd better wait and let him get stronger before we cut into him.'"

"At this the old farmer frowned and muttered in a weak voice from the bed:

"Say, professor, what do you take me for—a cheese?"

Editor News:

As it has been quite awhile since I have seen any news from this part of the sucker State, I thought I would give your many readers a few items.

The weather is fine now, but the 23th showed us the white side of winter by sending us a snow that would make a man draw up and shake a little.

This is a fine country, possessed with many faults, namely: cold weather, hot weather, hard work. This is no place for a loafer. If a man cannot work 6 days in a week he will have to "23". The people are beginning to hush their corn now and are in need of more men, as the yield is very large. Corn running from 45 to 85 bushel per acre. But says some, we don't like to work in Illinois. Why? Because they want us to work 6 days out of every week.

I am a Kentuckian and I dearly love my old home state. I love the people of Kentucky and it does me good to come back to my old childhood home and travel over the hills and go to the places where I played just twenty years ago. Having had the pleasure of making the old State a visit 8 months ago, I met quite a few of my old friends, which I will name; Frank Shepherd, T. A. Pollard, C. M. Pollard, G. A. Brockman, C. W. Pollard, J. F. Cabell, H. A. Todd, J. D. Todd, J. R. Tutt and Geo. Todd, and many more I haven't space to mention.

Miss Leathie Brockman has turned home to Kentucky after making a short stay with relatives in Illinois.

November the 8th, is election day here and we expect to elect the Democrat ticket clear through. I will give Hurrah for the News! Stamp out the Powerism and boost the other candidate.

Well, I must get another bucket of coal and hug my fire until the wind changes.

John Brockman.

Not Sorry for Blunder.

"If my friends hadn't blundered in thinking I was a doomed victim of consumption, I might not be alive now," writes D. T. Sanders, of Harrodsburg, Ky., "but for years they saw every attempt to cure a lung racking cough fail. At last I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. The effect was wonderful. It soon stopped the cough and I am now in better health than I have had for years. This wonderful life-saver is an unrivaled remedy for coughs, colds, lagrippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhages, whooping cough or weak lungs. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Pauli Drug Co.

Mr. John White, wife and children were guests of Mr. W. J. Gabbert and wife, a few days ago.

Mrs. Robt. Hudson and Mrs. Mollie Hudson visited Mrs. T. J. Bryant one day last week.

The spelling at Concord was very interesting. The best order I ever saw at a spelling.

Mr. Albert Bryant, who is getting along nicely at Oak Grove, gave a spelling one night last week.

Mr. B. O. Hurt, of Russell Springs, passed here one day last week en route to Columbia.

Rev. Black, new pastor, preached his first sermon at Clear Spring last Sunday. Those who heard him are well pleased.

Eld. Luther Young preaches occasionally to the people. He is studying for the ministry. Luther is a worthy young man, and we wish him success. May the spirit guide him in all his work.

Bro. Wyatt Montgomery and family, of Moreland, are at the bedside of the former's sister, Miss Effie Montgomery.

Misses Lula Bryant and Tommie Maupin visited Miss Nannie Bailey, of Craycraft, one night last week.

Ice as Fuel.

A cade of ice at 23 degrees Fahrenheit is ordinarily considered to be a rather cold substance, but it is as much hotter than liquid air as the oven in which bread is baked is hotter than the ice.

A tea kettle partly filled with liquid air and placed on a cake of ice receives so much heat from the ice that the liquid air soon boils vigorously, and the boiling can be made more violent by adding a few lumps of ice.

If the normal temperature of the earth were at the freezing point of air and we could obtain a block of ice such as is distributed by the iceman of today such ice could be used as fuel and would be put into the furnaces instead of coal.—Popular Mechanics.

Black Snake and Boa Mate.

A huge boa constrictor, which escaped from Ringling Brothers' circus at Monticello ten years ago, is believed to have mated with a black snake, creating a specimen of the reptile family which does not appear in the encyclopedia. At least that is the opinion of men who claim to be authority on snakes and their habits.

The discovery was made by Duane Kerr, a farmer, while at work on a piece of wild land. He unearthed a nest of snakes and by the use of dynamite killed five of them. The largest measured seven feet, five inches. The snakes are of a blackish color and distinctly mottled. Kerr was terrified when he heard a loud hissing and looked up to see the head of a huge snake projecting from a nearby stump. He then got the dynamite, inserted it in the root and the explosion which followed revealed five snakes, which, when placed head to tail on the ground measured more than 35 feet.

Proud of His Prospects.

Louis Pierre was one of a number of Canadian immigrants who settled at Fitzgerald, Ga. As he spoke both French and English, he rapidly became a man of importance, and was successively elected to the offices of city marshal, coroner and justice of the peace.

A dispute arose between the French and English settlers as to the superiority of the United States over the Canadian provinces. They finally agreed to leave the decision to Judge Pierre, who handed down this decision.

"Yoost take a look at me. First dey mäge me constabul, den coroner, en now joostic de pees. Soon I be ze goavernur, den senator, den president. I wood be ze long time in Canada 'fore dey mäge me queen." —Circle Magazine.

Foes Only During Debate.

The late John J. Ingalls, senator for Kansas, let loose in the senate one day about Conkling, Hancock and several other distinguished people. His remarks were particularly severe.

Joe Blackburn, then senator from Kentucky, was chosen to answer Ingalls, and he took a good deal of hide off the brilliant Kansan. In one paragraph Blackburn said: "And this man has the temerity to assult Hancock—Hancock the Supurb—who was giving of his life's blood on the heights of Gettysburg while the senator from Kansas was skulking along behind a regiment of Kansas jay-hawkers, trying those jayhawkers in the capacity of judge advocate for robbing hen roosts."

There was more of the same kind, and everybody thought there would be trouble, inasmuch as Ingalls was high spirited and Blackburn unafraid.

After the senate adjourned Blackburn and Ingalls met, face to face, in the corridor in front of the marble room. A dozen spectators looked for carnage.

Ingalls stopped, looked squarely into Blackburn's eyes and Blackburn glared back.

"Joe," said Ingalls, putting out his hand, "isn't this cruel war over?"

"It is," said Blackburn, taking the offered hand, and they went off arm in arm.—Saturday Evening Post.

Picnic.

We are having the severest spell of weather perhaps ever known in Kentucky in October.

The tent meeting conducted by the holiness people began at Breeding, Saturday night of last week.

J. D. Patterson, Melvin Petty,
Jim and Will Tom Patterson

Mrs. Laura Butler, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs.
Patterson, for a few weeks passed, left one day last week for Edmonton, where she will visit for several days, after which she will leave for her Western home.

Miss Nora Bradshaw, who is clerking at Pettie's store, went to Columbia one day last week.

The party given to the young people by Mr. and Mrs. J. D.
Patterson, on last Saturday night week, in honor of Misses Nora and Carrie Bradshaw, was a success.

The store of E. A. Stow & Co., at Paducah, was destroyed by fire, with a loss of $15,000, partly covered by insurance.

Free Dyspepsia
Sample

Sufferers from indigestion are waking up to the fact that peppermint, foetage, charcoal and "dyspepsia cures" are only makeshifts in the cure of so troublesome a complaint as indigestion. What is required is something that will not only relieve but which will tone and train the digestive apparatus to again do its work normally, and this these simple remedies cannot do.

There is something more to the cure of indigestion than sweetening the stomach, and yet a remedy that only contains digestive ingredients will not cure permanently, as the focus of indigestion is in poor bowel circulation, and that requires a scientific laxative. A knowledge of no remedy that combines these requirements better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has been sold for a quarter of a century.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a laxative tonic, a scientific blending of natural ingredients for the cure of constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sour stomach, sick headache and similar complaints. Its ingredients never touch the stomach, sick headache and similar complaints. Its ingredients never touch the stomach, sick headache and similar complaints. ## Short Arm Jabs.

(From the Commoner.)

There are people who continue to applaud the man who paraphrases one of the original Ten Commandments, thinking that he is the original discoverer of the idea.

The indications are that "Sunny Jim" is suffering from a temporary eclipse.

It seems, judging by recent Republican primaries, that when President Taft tried to put the "pie counter" ball across he rather fooled the put.

The latest edition of "Mr. Barnes of New York" seems destined to appear on the bargain counter set aside for damaged goods.

Isn't it rather strange that the president does not solve the Ballinger trouble by putting Richard Achilles on the supreme bench?

We are not so much interested in Prof. Garner's efforts to train monkeys to talk as we are in some scheme to prevent a lot of monkeys from talking so much.

Secretary Ballinger conveys the startling intimation that he is about to point out a few black kettles if they do not immediately refrain from animal advertising upon his own collection of sooty pots.

Our Republican brethren seem to be getting together for the sole purpose of ascertaining how far apart they can knock another.

The Call of the South.

The census returns, the crop harvests, the mining and manufacturing reports, the prosperity and activity in Southern cities and the agricultural districts of that section all concentrate upon the South the attention of the people, not only of the United States, but of the world.

The States South of Mason and Dixon's line now having the same influx of population, the same increase in the activities of the business affairs, the same rise in values of real estate as had the States of the Middle West a half century ago, and the great Northwest experienced in the seventies and eighties of the last century.

But we must think for one moment that the South has nearly reached its zenith of wealth, prosperity and influence.

Its fertile soil and balmy climate invite scores of millions of producers, who will add to the resources of those States and the nation.

The call of the South is now on the entire nation, and the practical New Englanders and the shrewd and sturdy Westerners alike appreciate the advantages of the South, encircled on the north and west by a population largely dependent upon its products and its patronage, and upon the east and the south by the oceans which give it access to all the ports of the world.

The South contains in itself all the natural element of a powerful nation.

Its soil, its mines, its natural resources, so numerous and so varied, its rivers, its ports, its position upon the continent, and its relative position with the states of such greater rigor of climate are magnets to those who desire health, wealth, ease with prosperity.

Medical genius has freed it from the dreadful fevers of yore, and to-day its Atlantic and Gulf coasts are sanitariums for the world.

Great as has been the gain of population by the South for two decades, the next ten years will show greater gains than the twenty that have passed.

A Trouser Wrinkle.

"If you are your own valet," said a tailor—"and most men are—then I'll tell you a wonderful method to keep your trousers creased. One pressing a month, by this method, will do as much good as two pressings a week old style.

"First, you must have a tiny tuck, not more than a sixteenth of an inch wide, made down the inside of the trousers, back and front, so as to hold the crease together. Then for every pressing, the trousers must be soaped inside.

"The soap, after the hot iron has done its work, makes the cloth as firm as iron. The tuck keeps the creases always bold sharp. Result—a perfect trouser, the admiration of all the girls."

COCK A DOODLE DOO

WHEN NEW YORK, OHIO, MASSACHUSETTS, AND NEW JERSEY GOES DEMOCRATIC.

OUR ROOSTER HAS A RIGHT TO CROW.

From the latest reports received here every one indicates a sweeping victory for the Democrats throughout the entire country and in every instance, so far as we have been able to learn, the very best men the party could produce were put forward and elected and the cock crows. In New York the campaign was a bitter one, made so, largely, by the part Roosevelt took in it and the result is a direct slap to the dictatorial tactics of the Ex-president and his visionary and sensational policies he advocates. The State went 100,000 strong against Teddy and in New Jersey the same medicine was administered by electing the Democratic candidate for Governor, whom Mr. Roosevelt undertook to defeat.

Connecticut likewise fell into the great tide and elected a Democratic Governor. Massachusetts, tired and oppressed politically, surrendered a heavy Republican vote and sent the State Democratic. In Ohio, the home of Pres. Taft, the home of Nicholas Longworth, and we should here mention, the residing place of Ex-Senator Foraker, the brainiest and gamest man in the Republican party, politically assassinated by Teddy and his worshippers in the last National Campaign, went like the others a small majority of seventy-five thousand for Gov. Harmon. In Sunny Tennessee conflicting reports were received but the latest places Senator Bob Taylor's majority for Governor at ten thousand. Indiana likewise is reported Democratic so far as the Senatorial contest, John W. Kern winning the honor over Senator Berendse. A good man against a good man—Greek against Trojan.

Kentucky gained one Democratic Congressman and that was in the ninth. The Tenth District elected Congressman Bennett by two thousand and the Eleventh, bound to her idol—the G. O. P., made a hard struggle to break the shackles and the result shows that Power's majority is fifteen thousand below a high tide majority. His narrow margin is disappointing to his active adherents and speaks in plain and unmistakable language that he is not unifying his party. The contest between Bertram and Powers in reality, was not political and the heavy slump does not indicate a political change, but a rebuke administered by several thousand of as good Republicans as can be found in the entire country. The Democrats, solid against Powers, are indeed grateful to the many Republicanized who voted with them in this contest. They recognize in them the highest duty preformed at the sacrifice of party irregularity. The result speaks to the outside country that the spirit of freedom, honor, integrity and advancement is not dead in the Eleventh but only temporarily handicapped. Three counties now stand out jewels in this district—diamonds that adorn their political record, Adair Laurel and Wayne, while Russell county striving to enter barely failed. While we have no figures on the standing of the next Congress indications point to a Democratic body.

The greatest blessing to the Republican party and the entire country came in the bolt that hit Teddy, their severest loss, the defeat of Beveridge. The richest morsel to Democrats was the strong protest against Powers and their severest loss Senator Bertram. The vote of Adair county is published on first page.

Kentucky Library Commission.

The Kentucky Library Commission came into existence at act of the legislature of 1910. This act provides for the appointment of five members by the governor, and an appropriation for its maintenance and support.

The purpose of the commission is to promote the library interests of the State by increasing the usefulness of libraries already in existence, by the establishment of new ones in communities where none exist, and by the maintenance and operation of a widely circulating traveling library system reaching all parts of the State where needed.

The activities of the commission for the present, therefore, will consist in assistance and advice in the management of existing libraries and in the establishment of new ones, and in the operation of traveling libraries both in fixed groups and from an open shelf collection for the use of libraries, schools and study clubs.

To promote the best efficiency of library work in the state the library commission, will assist communities wishing to establish libraries by giving advice and assistance in arousing public interest, in securing a maintenance tax, in the selection of suitable building plans and furniture. Estimates for equipment and specifications for furniture and shelving will be supplied and material, in the form of photographs and blue prints, illustrating these things will be collected and kept in the commission office for the use of library boards. Help will also be given in the organization and administration of the library and where possible and organizer will be sent to aid in this work.

To libraries already established the commission will give advice and help in book selection and purchase, with suggestions for securing the best book lists will aid in reference work and in all the details of library equipment and management. The commission will also assist library boards in securing the services of competent librarians, when requested so to do.

The traveling libraries which have for a number of years been maintained by the women's clubs in the mountains of Kentucky will be thoroughly reorganized and turned over to the commission, new libraries will be added by purchase, and it will be the aim of the commission not only to continue the supply of traveling libraries in the mountains where they have been received with so much appreciation and read with so much interest, but also to circulate them throughout the state among those who are without library facilities.

These traveling libraries will consist of fixed groups of fifty or more well selected books for general reading and study for adults, young people and children. They will be securely packed in wooden boxes, which may serve as a bookcase during the circulation of the library. They will be sent free of charge, except the cost of transportation, and under such conditions and rules as shall protect the interests of the state and best increase the efficiency of the service.

In addition to the fixed groups of traveling libraries described above, an open shelf or subject collection will be a feature of the commission work, from which books may be borrowed to suit the special needs of study clubs, debating societies, farmers' clubs and individuals. This collection will be purchased as these needs develop and subject libraries will be made up and sent out as called for, and under such conditions as will render the collection most useful to all concerned. Women's clubs of the State are especially solicited to write the commission office in regard to assistance on club programs.

Senator J. J. Watkins Dies at Sturgis Home

Ill Three Weeks With Gastritis--Friend of Education.

Sturgis, Ky., Nov. 5.—State Senator J. J. Watkins died here this morning after a three week's illness of gastritis and heart trouble.

After attending the meeting of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows at Shelbyville last month, where he was elected grand outer guard, he returned home and was taken sick. At first it was not thought to be serious, but soon developed alarmingly, with the result that the physicians were unable to relieve him.

Senator Watkins had served two terms in the Senate and was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction for the next term. He has always been a strong advocate in the Senate of progressive school legislation and an uncompromising friend of the county unit local option bill in the last two sessions of the legislature. He had been a school teacher for many years, but at the time of his death was interested in a number of enterprises in this city and county and was a very busy man. He was a member of the State Educational Commission and always willing to contribute time and hard work to the cause of education.

Requests for information, advice or assistance, for blanks for traveling libraries or books from the general loan collection, and all correspondence relating to library work should be addressed to the Library Commission, The Capitol, Frankfort, Kentucky.

The good people being brought closer together than they have ever been during the past. During this series of meeting we heard many deep, interesting sermons which were received with the greatest of gratitude by all who have reached the first stage of civilization. I am sure the people of Mt. Carmel and the surrounding country will never forget. The old and young alike learned to love this good man who worked so hard for them. He has been a friend for both saint and sinner alike.

Miss Holladay proved to us that she is a well skilled musician both as an organist and as a singer. She delivered her service with the most hearty good will and by so doing aroused the old Mt. Carmel class from moping to a charming spirit and we will certainly give Miss Holladay the credit. She was also a faithful worker during the entire series of meetings and she has many friends here and will be long remembered by us all.

I wish to say to all who may read this if you ever have an opportunity to hear Bro. Crawford preach by all means listen to him; he will tell you some thing worth while and will tell it in a plain sensible manner, and you cannot fail to be benefited by it. Even from an educational standpoint his sermons are interesting, but when we realize that the words we hear are coming from an honest heart, it means more than mere historical facts. It means that Bro. Crawford is interested in you and in me and is preaching for us and has the interest of the human family at heart. As his blessings have rested upon the people in and around Mt. Carmel, so may God's blessings rest upon him and his family.

The Stray Dog.

Just watch the stray dog for a moment and see if the next moment he hasn't formed friendship with a small boy. Just watch the love and devotion of the meanest, ugliest, homeliest pup in the world for the small boy, and wonder about it. Then watch the return of affection on the small boy's part and wonder some more why it seems intended that there should be such a bond of affection between the dumb brute and the barefoot boy. It's easy to understand. Take the report of the School Commissioner of Kentucky for 1910 and he figures into the school fund the sum of $50,296.16 from the dog tax. In other words the dog is paying that much to educate the boy, and why shouldn't the pup be interested in where his money goes? And the small boy of Kentucky returns thanks to the dog for aiding him in getting an education by showing his love for him. The Kentucky dog is putting up over $50,000 for the education of the boy this year. If the boy doesn't get it, don't blame it on the dog.—Shelby Sentinel.

A Word to Girls.

Have you ever noticed the great amount of admiring attention which the graceful girl attracts? Even though she may be only plain or moderately good-looking, and not prettily or smartly dressed, there is an air of natural superiority about her which forces her upon our notice. This superiority lies in the fact that the graceful girl knows how to poise her body correctly, how to walk and sit becomingly. Consequently, no matter what she wears or what her features may be like, she always appears to the best advantage.

A plain girl who knows how to stand, move and sit with ease is far more admired than the beauty who is clumsy and awkward. Some girls are naturally graceful. But there is no reason why those who are lacking in this respect should not add to their charms by carefully cultivating the art. An erect carriage, a graceful walk, a graceful manner of sitting and rising are necessary if a girl wishes to be really charming. And it is quite within her power to acquire either virtues. She must study her own defects and the faults of other girls in order that she may avoid them.—Selected.

Happy Retort.

At the luncheon given by the women of the Danville Presbyterian Synod of Kentucky, which met in that city recently, Gen. Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, the moderator, was approached by a woman who said:

"I did not think I would ever see one Morgan's horse thieves become the moderator of a Presbyterian Synod. They arrested my father here when I was a small tot of a girl, and I then thought they were an awful looking set." "Gen. Young, who is not often without a good response, replied: "Madam, as a good orthodox Presbyterian you ought not to forget that with God all things are possible. His grace is boundless and with Him the day of miracles never passes. I hope you won't think hard of even a Presbyterian moderator, who after the lapse of 42 years humbly requests to be allowed to plead the statute of limitation on than unhappy incident." The General then received two plates of ice cream instead of one.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Color Line in Washington.

The proposed appointment of William H. Lewis a Boston negro to be Assistant Attorney General of the United States has raised all sorts of opposition among the Northern white Republicans and the tumult has grown so great that President Taft may have to shelve his Boston job. It is the social question which is causing all the trouble. It seems that the Assistant Attorney General and his family take social rank above Brigadier Generals of the army and Captains of the navy and that the office carries with it social entree to the White House, and receptions to the judiciary. The ladies in Washington are making more stir about the appointment than even the men and President Taft has heard from the wives of the Judges of The Supreme Court in a way that he has begun to realize that there are something when stirred up give more trouble than a hornet nest.—E-Town News.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life.

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madson, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for Stomach, Liver or Kidney trouble and never disappoints. Only 60c at Paul Drug Co.

Holidays.

In Kentucky the number of holidays is increasing. When a holiday is once established it is rarely abolished, and from time to time a new one is added, as was done by the last legislature. The observance of these holidays is optional rather than mandatory and people may observe them or not, as they choose. If a holiday comes on Sunday the next day is to be observed as such. The holidays here are January 1st, New Year's Day; February 22nd, Washington's Day; May 30th, Decoration Day; the first Monday in September, Labor Day; October 12th, Columbus day; last Thursday in November, Thanksgiving Day; December 25, Christmas Day, and such other days as may be set aside by proclamation of the Governor or President.

An Old Theory.

In a lengthy article on mules in the Wisconsin Farmer we find this statement:

"There is one point in mule breeding that is perhaps not as much considered as it might be, and that is that much of the 'mule look' in the mule can be tempered and improved by first breeding the mare to a stallion, having her first colt by him, and then afterwards breeding to the jack. It is an undoubted fact that the first offspring greatly influences subsequent ones. For instance, breed a mare first to a jack and you will undoubtedly get a fine mule as the result. Afterward breed even continuously to a stallion and every one of the mare's progeny will have a very noticeable mule look, no matter how fine the animal. Is may otherwise look. By reversing the operation, the appearance of the mules will be greatly softened and improved, and the value consequently increased."

Is this true or is it merely imagination? Science fails to agree with the theory held by this mule breeder. What do other mule-raisers think about it.

Skim-Milk for Colts.

An inquirer has asked if skim-milk would not be a good thing to give to a colt after it has been weaned. This is a line in which the writer happens to have had some personal experience. The answer is that, if proper precautions are taken, it is just about the best thing likely to happen to the colt. Too much skim-milk does not agree with a colt, and may cause it to scour, just as it would a young pig or a calf. Sour milk does not agree with a colt, for horses of all ages are just about as subject to fermentative indigestion as any other domesticated animal. It does not do to give the colt too much skim-milk at any time, but especially when it is first fed. Otherwise, as the saying goes, "skim-milk is all right." Commence by giving the colt only a little bit of fresh skim-milk. As the fall advances, cool weather will assist in keeping the milk fresh, but if fed directly from skimming so much the better. If the milk seems to agree with the colt all of the crushed oats it will eat, as well as clean bright hay or grass, but do not overload with skim-milk to the scouring point.

Skim-milk is not only good for colts, but for older horses as well. It will make a visible difference in the way in which a horse will put on flesh just about from the start. Gains in horse-flesh are just about as valuable as gains in pork, beef or mutton, and fresh pure skim-milk can generally be used to advantage in making them.—Canadian Farm.

Gossip.

Are you a gossip?

Do you, by repetition of what another has said, by a suppression of one item or the addition of another has said, by half hints, by seemingly knowing looks, help to disseminate those tiny seeds which grow into such noxious weeds along the path of some fellow man or woman.

The deadliest concealed weapon is not the stiletto that leaps, blood-thirsty, from its sheath, nor the pistol that travels in the hip pocket always ready for carnage. It is that "little member," "that serpent tongue."

The victims of the dagger and the gun are counted in the court record and hospital wards, but no one numbers the reputations that go down before the gossiping tongues "where two or three are gathered together" to tell all they know of neighbors and acquaintances. And yet the evil of the latter often outweighs that of the former. A cut or a bullet wound may heal, but there is no patching or darning the rent in a character. The scar from blade or cartridge may be covered, and so in time be forgotten; but in every company into which a slandered man or woman enters there will be some one known as the old gossip and who sees plainly the torn place in the reputation.

The deplorable part of many such defamations is that they are either altogether undeserved, or else have been grossly exaggerated from insignificant facts. Every person who repeats a piece of evil gossip adds to it, consciously or unconsciously. The desire to surprise, to be worth listening to, is inherent with all tale bearers, therefore it is next to impossible to repeat a story just as it was received. By word, by tone, by lifted brows, by shrugged shoulders we barb the shaft that it may cleave the wider wound; and the person next in line does the same.

This is the way slander grows. The person who starts the tale only plants the seed; it is the dozens of repeaters who pad it out until it obscures all that is best and truest in the unfortunate subject. Many a clean-handed man, many a white-hearted woman has been crucified on the cross-board of 'evil speaking, lying and slandering.' There is in the decalogue no written command, 'Thou shalt not tattle; but every time we repeat a story that we do not know to be absolutely true, we "bear that false witness," that is forbidden. It is possible that the recording angel writes no blacker words against our names than those that keep count of the gossip we repeat and the slanders we perpetuate.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" was the question asked of old. And the answer might well be that so far as our own tongues go we are keeper of his fair name. We may not protect him from bodily hurt or from ills that lie outside of our sphere; but we can protect him from ourselves—from the mean, dishonorable tale bearing we call gossip, and which

Woman's Beauty

Some women retain their beauty to an advanced age. But women, who regularly endure pain, age rapidly, for suffering leaves its lasting marks on them.

Nearly all women suffer more or less with some form of female trouble. It should not be neglected. Avoid the pain—treat yourself at home by taking Cardui, as thousands of other women have done. Begin at once and give Cardui a fair trial.

TAKE CARDUI

It Will Help You

Mrs. Katie Burlison, Goreville, Ill., tried Cardui and writes: "I suffered with female troubles, and was so sick I could not stand on my feet. Finally I began to take Cardui, and soon began to mend. Now I am able to do all my housework and am in much better health than I was before." Try it.

Wheat sowing, sorghum making, possum hunting and bean shelling seems to be the order of the day at present.

Horatio Royse, whose home is in Missouri, but who was raised in Adair county, has been visiting friends and relatives near this place.

Quite a large crowd gathered at the home of J. S. Beard, merchant at this place Sunday. In the afternoon there was some very good singing and music, Miss Mollie and Master Willie Robert Beard playing the organ. The gathering was in honor of little Miss Mary Beard's eleventh birthday, which is also the birthday of little Misses Fannie Beard and Eula Sublett.

Don't Kill Snakes and Toads.

The French town authorities post village bulletin boards, for public instruction. One of these reads, "Hedgehog; lives upon mice, snails and wireworms—do not kill a hedgehog. Toad: helps agriculture, killing twenty to thirty insects every hour—do not kill a toad. Cockchafer: deadly enemy to the farmer; lays one hundred eggs at a time—kill the cockchafer." It would be a good idea for our own government to post bulletins of this sort, instead of printing so many for circulation.

In the South most of the snakes are of great value, and that is relatively true everywhere. The blue racer, a handsome fellow, is estimated to be worth ten dollars a year to destroy mice and gophers. The bull snake and the garter snake destroy insects and rodents without themselves hurting the garden. In my Clinton ground we have so long protected the little garter snake that he suns himself on the compost piles without fearing us at all. Why not?—E. D. Powell in September Outing.

Glensfork.

An average crop of wheat and winter oats has been sowed in this section and the crop is growing nicely.

Mrs. Nancy Sanders left a few days ago for Carrollton, Mo., where she will make her home with her son. She was accompanied by her nephew, Eldridge Sanders, who will remain in that section a few months.

Mr. S. T. Gluff, who has been with his family in Southern Indiana, for several months has returned to his farm near this place to look after his crop. We understand that Mr. Gluff wants to sell his farm before he returns. We will say to prospective home seekers that his farm is well located and could be made a desirable home.

Mrs. Etta Morgan of Amanda-ville, has bought L. C. Blair's house and lot at this place. Consideration $500.

H. C. Hudson has rented Dr. S. P. Miller's farm near Columbia and will move to it in a short time.

Mrs. Fannie Andrew, a highly respected old lady, who has dwelt at this place for many years died at the home of her son, W. C. Andrew, on the 24th. She was about 80 years of age and had been in declining health for several months. She was the mother of Messrs I. F. and W. C. Andrew and Mrs. Howard Webb, this place.

It is a matter of common observation that quail and rabbits are scarce in this section than was ever known before. It is evident that if some law is not enacted soon to stop the wholesale slaughter of quails and rabbits their existence will within another decade be a matter of history. Surely there should be a law to prevent the killing of game for shipment.

Mr. C. A. Walker is still improving.

Seven of the baseball team at this place and two of the Roy team played the Roy team last Saturday. Eldridge Sanders, our pitcher, is in Missouri, and the boys having to play against eleven of their players and the umpire, got beat by a score of 7 to 15.

Mr. Eugene Buster of Creelsboro, has moved to the vacant house on the Kelsay farm. We understand that Mr. Buster is preparing to build a house on the land he bought of N. B. Kelsay last spring.

Foal Shows.

Enterprising owners of stallions who have established foal shows where the produce of their horses meet in competition have been surprised at the interest taken in them. In some localities foal shows, open to the get of all stallions, are held as the result of the boost given at the start by some wide-awake stallion owner. Competition in such cases is quite keen, and it is not uncommon to see a score of foals lined up for inspection. One of the best features is the fact that good weanlings thus shown find ready buyers. Out in Eastern Ohio the second-prize draft colt in one show as a means of demonstrating the value of their horses and encouraging the production of good colts as well as finding a market for them.

All taxes that are unpaid on Dec. 1st, are subject to the penalty and cost as fixed by law. Persons wishing to save this extra cost should settle before the above named date as I am compelled to close up for the year 1910 and will after said date proceed to force a collection on all out standing taxes. Editor News:—

As I never see a letter in the News from this part of the country, I shall endeavor to write one. The News reaches here on Friday, and to me it is very newsy.

I am real glad to note that my old friend and comrade Dr. J. T. Jones is regaining his usual health. The health of this community is good with the exception of a few cases of typhoid fever. I am also glad to learn of the prominence which the Roy Base ball team is climbing to, from the fact that I have the distinguished honor of being the founder and organizer of that team, and I think their success is due mainly to their early training.

The politicians of both political parties are very active in this county at present, there being about equal number of Democratic and Republican voters in the county. There is to be a Governor, State and county officers elected at the coming election. It is thought that the "Grandfather Clause," which was recently passed by the Referendum, will disfranchise about 30,000 voters in the state—some from each party.

There are quite a number of Cheyenne Indians near here, one who is known as "Old Walkingstone" was in the battle of little Big Horn Mountain in which Gen. Custer and his band were killed. Will close wishing my Kentucky friends much success, I enjoy reading the letters from Rowes X Roads fine, come often old brother. I shall write more next time if this escapes the waste basket. R. A. Epperson.

Dirigo.

This is Thursday November 3, and nothing is more scarce in Dirigo than news.

Landy Stotts bought a yoke of work oxen from W. L. Strange for eighty-five dollars.

Mrs. R. L. Campbell has been very sick for the few days, but is better at this writing.

J. W. McClister and Arthur Royse did business at Columbia last Tuesday.

Mrs. Whitehead and daughter, of the Sparksville community, did business here one day this week.

Rollin Egan is very sick at this writing with pneumonia.

My only regret that this letter cannot reach the public before election day since the P. S. to the letter from Roy seems to doubt the authority relied on in our letter of last week. But perhaps a few words in explanation will not be out of order anyway.

The man from Dirigo is very thankful for the assurance of the gentleman (or gentlemen) which ever the case may be) from Roy in regard to the political situation in that section. He believes that the same sentiment is prevalent in many sections of the Eleventh Congressional District. The Dirigo man has for years been a student of history, both sacred and profane, and from his knowledge thus obtained and from his observations from personal association he regrets that he is unable to detect any great change in the people of to-day from the acts and customs, politically speaking, of the people who enacted the events of history nineteen hundred years ago. Then the proposition was, "which shall I release unto you, Christ the Just One, or Barabbas' the noted murderer?" The people then voted almost unanimously for Barabbas. I presume that all my readers are familiar with their punishment. The Jewish nation was broken up and all its people scattered among the nations of the world and they are still an almost on-cast people.

On September 15, 1910, the voters of a certain party were called upon to answer the question, "which shall be our candidate for Congress, Mr. Edwards, an honest man, or Powers, the man with a pardon in his pocket?" Well, they said give us Powers. And now can the gentleman from Roy say that this act did not provoke the wrath of the Almighty against the people of this district? Just think of that terrible disease, diphtheria, that has been raging in this district since the above named primary, and of the great number of children that have been called to a more enjoyable estate by reason of this disease. Is not this alone enough to open your eyes? No the Dirigo man does not expect a plague of hailstones, although such a thing is possible. We certainly had a severe snow storm last Friday. But then to proceed. On next Tuesday the people of the Eleventh Kentucky Congressional District will be called upon to answer the question, "which shall represent you in Congress, Bertram, a man against whom there is no stain, or Powers, the notorious criminal who can boast of three pardons and who by his acts has said that I am guilty of one of the most dastardly crimes that ever blackened the name of a State, a man equal to Barabbas of old?" Well, the gentleman from Roy says that the people will say give us Powers, and the man from Dirigo has grave fears that this prediction is true. And I have always been taught that God is a just God and so if he would slay seventy thousand in Israel for the small crime of David in making a general census of his subjects what might He do to a people who would elect a man to rule them who has been thrice convicted of the heinous crime that Caleb Powers carries on his shoulders?

In addition to the scriptures that I called your attention to last week please read Matt. 27: 15-26; Luke 23: 13-26; John 18: 39, 40; Acts 3: 14. Then go back and read the books of Samuel, Kings, Judges and Chronicles with one or two of the old prophets thrown in, then think of your vote and remember that "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

And now last but not least we have read the scripture that the gentleman refers to and must confess that I am unable to catch his meaning, and so will say to the gentleman that if it is Mr. Bertram that you mean to accuse of being a thief that you are not true to your trust if you do not expose him, and if it is your humble scribe that you mean to throw it at will say that the courts are open and if I am guilty of such it is your duty to prosecute me. So now I may add that this little talk has been given without malice to anyone. I hope no one will be offended here. It proceeded from the heart and is my honest opinion and if any one can show me wherein I have erred I will acknowledge my mistake and extend my hand in friendship and ask forgiveness.

R. L. C.

Gentry's Mill.

We were indeed sorry to give up Mrs. Susie Vaughan and daughter, but Mrs. Vaughan has lost her health in Kentucky and hopes to recuperate in Texas. Our parting day was last Thursday. May success and good health be with them, for we can recommend them as being real industrious people and excellent neighbors.

Messrs. T. Sullivan, C. Anderson, U. G. Anderson, D. Gentry and W. A. Wilson were in Russell Springs last Thursday, a business.

Mr. E. B. Wilson has accepted a position as clerk in Mrs. Ermine W. Wilson's Store in Russell Springs. A number of voters were entertained at Pleasant Point School house on last Wednesday night by Messrs. U. G. Anderson and Silas Sullivan, who spoke in behalf of the Republican candidate for Congress. All enjoyed it, and we feel quite sure that if Mr. Taft could have been there he would have enjoyed it too, as Mr. Sullivan's speech was both patriotic and interesting, and would have been good for Taft's "next" inaugural address. After the speaking many of the leading Democrats were afraid that the Republicans would pull down Mr. Calub Powers' picture under the Log Cabin and place Hon. Silas Sullivan's picture instead.

The people of this vicinity extend their heartiest congratulations to the newly married couple, Mr. Bud Anderson and Miss Sofia Frost, who eloped to Tennessee and found the minister waiting for them.

Misses Creel Nell and Mabel Hindman visited Misses Annie and Eva Bradshaw near Bliss last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Yates, two of our best citizens, who reside on Big Creek will in the near future move to the property of Mr. P. E. Thomas near this place, known as the Mrs. A. A. Hoy farm.

J. P. Hutchison, of Columbia, with several other produce men made our town last week and as usual took up all the produce at fair prices.

Mr. Ollie Breeding, while en route for our town one day last week, his team became frightened from some cause running off and throwing Mr. Breeding from the wagon, but we are glad to report that he was not seriously hurt.

Mr. J. F. Pendleton, who shipped a carload of hogs and veal calves last week to the Louisville market did very well in prices. We are all glad to know this for we need just such a man in our community to buy our surplus stock, and we want him to realize a nice profit thereby.

Messrs. G. T. Flowers and brother are building Mr. W. N. Smith a new chimney to his new dwelling. We all know there is nothing like a good fire place when we want to get warm quick.
